Joe,

Thanks for passing this along. Our accounting department will not process this without significantly more detail. In particular, for the approximately 51 hours identified as "Analysis," we will need to know what was done and on what devices. Fifty-one hours also seems like a lot of time for analysis on these drives, particularly since many of the devices were apparently beyond their usable life and did not have any recoverable data, so we will need more substantiation about the work performed.

I'm happy to get on a call to talk tomorrow.

Thanks,

Hunter B. Thomson
